There is no action without thought.